TERRITORY ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

We would like to acknowledge and extend our respect to the communities and Nations of the Lekwungen and WSÁNEĆ Peoples, specifically the Songhees, and Esquimalt Nations on whose unceded territories we are privileged to work, live and play. Within the context of this project, we recognize the inherent connection between colonialism and systemic oppression and strive to work toward peaceful, and mutually beneficial ends.

Please extend this acknowledgement to the Nations and communities whose territories you are currently in and participating in this workshop from. You may find the names of the Nations at: <http://www.antiviolenaceproject.org/about/territory-acknowledgement>

THINGS TO HAVE HANDY

Please be sure to have a pen or pencil and some paper to write a few things down during the workshop, or if you prefer to write on your computer feel free to do that.

There will be a few instances where you will be asked to write things down for yourself or possibly for a small group.

Please download the one page handout (print it if you like) and use it as a guide for the workshop module.

2SLGBTQIA+ HISTORY TIMELINE

In the left margin of each page of this presentation you will find a milestone in Two-Spirit, Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Queer, Intersex and Allies plus (2SLGBTQIA+) history.

As you go through the workshop, please consider these points in history and let them help you imagine the context of the stories you are witnessing and the issues you are discussing.

1830:

"John Tanner (he/him) a white American living in the Great Lakes and Red River regions, writes about an encounter with an Ojibwe community member, a person who, "...was one of those who make themselves women (...) They are commonly called A-go-kwa..." (Tanner, 1830, p. 105) "

This milestone records the presence of people in Indigenous communities, now referred to as Two-Spirit, in the year 1830. The Agokwa in Ojibwe culture, had a name in their language, and an acknowledged cultural role in their society.

SAFER SPACE GUIDELINES

There are many reasons that some people may not feel safe in a group discussion, creating a group agreement is a way to help build trust and encourage positive communication in a group setting.

- Avoid making assumptions about the identity, experiences, and/or histories of other people
- Respect the confidentiality of information and narratives shared with you
- Assume that others are acting and speaking from a place of positive intent
- Be aware of the impacts of your own behaviour and take responsibility for what you say and do
- Respect the physical, mental and emotional boundaries of yourself and others - ask for consent before engaging in physical contact
- Would you like to add or change something?

A note from the workshops developers:

In creating the Generational Allies workshop series, onmyplanet.ca interviewed a number of 2SLGBTQIA+ older adults about their lives and personal experiences. It is our intention to represent all the storytellers, their decisions and their opinions with the utmost of respect and dignity.

We acknowledge the storytellers' courage in stepping forward and we are grateful for their honesty and vulnerability so that others could benefit from their experiences. We acknowledge the incredible value of these stories and offer the storytellers our gratitude for sharing a part of their lives with us.

A FEW MORE ALLYSHIP TIPS

1990:

Dr. Myra Laramie shares the concept of Two-Spirit at the gathering of the Annual Native American Gay and Lesbian Gathering in Winnipeg.

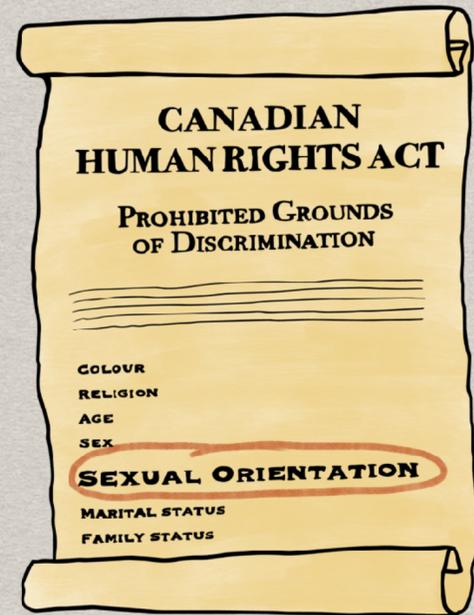

- There is no one way to be an Ally
- You don't have to understand someone's identity to respect it.
- Identity may not be what you expect it to be. Ask about pronouns, be open to possibilities.
- Continue to educate yourself.
